PISTOLS TAKEN FROM FELDMAN'S

26 Revolvers Taken by Burglars Who Enter Store Through Skylight.

Entering through a skylight over the office at the rear of the store, burglars entered the store of the Fred J. Feldman company some time Monday night and carried off revolvers to the value of $500 and other goods. The burglary was discovered on Tuesday morning when the clerks entered the store. It is evident that the burglary was committed by some person, or persons, familiar with the layout of the store. The skylight through which entry was made is directly above a high desk, which gave the burglars something to stand upon as they dropped through the skylight. Entry from the office into the main part of the store was unobstructed.

Cash Not Taken.

The cash registers, all having small amounts of change, were untouched though all were left slightly open. The revolver case was locked and entry was secured to it by smashing the top glass. An inventory made Tuesday morning by P. Hughes, manager of the sporting goods department, revealed the loss of 26 revolvers and numerous rounds of small caliber and the majority having fancy or engraved hilts. Probably a dozen heavy revolvers of large caliber were left in the case. Handed along the wall were cases containing dozens of shotguns and small caliber rifles but none of these were molested.

On the floor beside the revolver case was found an athletic sweater which had been tied up to make a small bag and it is thought that the burglars used other sweaters to carry off their booty and had been preparing to fill the other sweaters with the heavy revolvers when they were frightened away. The loss is protected by burglary insurance.
